

JUST ONE THING

Title: Art as a Catalyst for Inclusion

Company/Organization: Positive Street Art

Type of Organization: Nonprofit

Number of Employees: <100

Category: Nonprofit

Challenge or Opportunity: Positive Street Art recognizes the need to provide a platform for marginalized artists, particularly those from BIPOC, LGBTQIA+, and disabled communities, to express themselves and connect with their communities. These artists often face systemic barriers and lack opportunities to showcase their talent and contribute to the cultural landscape.

Approach or Solution: Positive Street Art's solution lies in its intentional focus on artistic engagement and community building. By prioritizing the transformative power of art, they create spaces for healing, unity, and social cohesion. Their programs and exhibitions empower individuals, foster a sense of belonging, and broaden perspectives on future possibilities.

The organization's success is further attributed to its diverse Board and Staff, who directly relate to the communities they serve.

Impact: Positive Street Art has already made a significant impact, empowering thousands of individuals through their programs and exhibitions. They have successfully curated six inter-organizational and international events in 2024, focusing on uplifting the voices of tribal nations, artists with disabilities, and at-risk youth.

Supporting Positive Street Art helps create a future where all creatives thrive, fostering an inclusive community that amplifies marginalized voices.
